

HANNAH SIMONE

She's Zooey Deschanel's straight-faced bestie, Cece, on the hit Fox TV show New Girl, but in real life, actress Hannah Simone is the one making everyone laugh. The brainy beauty (she worked at the UN before landing her New Girl gig!) talks about fashion—and her cookbook plans.

GLOBAL STYLE I went to high schools in four different countries. The gift is that you can constantly reinvent yourself. I still feel that freedom. One day I'll wear a dress I got in India; the next, Converse sneakers and jeans.

GUILTY PLEASURE Bingewatching TV, but I never feel guilty about it. I feel accomplished! I should give a TED Talk about my TV-marathoning skills. It's my sport.

ON HER NIGHTSTAND A pile of books! People recommend so many to me, so I order them. There could be an episode of Hoarders for my nightstand.

FAVORITE SNACK Caprese salad, but it's a challenge to pack it to go. I get pearl-size mozzarella balls and dump them in a container with cherry tomatoes, basil and balsamic vinegar.

All you need is a spoon!

HIDDEN TALENT I'm a huge cook! I'm actually trying to write my first cookbook. I make an Indian-spice Bolognese and serve it over pasta. It's a combination of flavors that people aren't used to.

WORDS OF WISDOM My dad taught me to pay attention to the way people treat you when you tell them no. Everyone is your friend if you say yes, but say no and watch how they react. It's been a huge life lesson for me.

